Post-Doctoral Fellowship beginning August, 2016

The Owen Graduate School of Management at Vanderbilt University is offering a 2-year post-doctoral fellowship in the Marketing area for newly-graduating Ph.D.s.

Post docs are expected to work closely with one or more of the Owen Marketing faculty on research projects. The Marketing area currently includes Professors Jennifer Escalas, Kelly Haws, Steve Hoeffler, Dawn Iacobucci, Steve Posavac, and Mark Ratchford. For brief descriptions on these faculty members’ research interests, see the area’s website:

http://www.owen.vanderbilt.edu/faculty-and-research/academic-areas/marketing.cfm

To be eligible, candidates must complete their Ph.D. by summer 2016 in marketing or related areas such as psychology or statistics. The strongest candidates will be those whose interests align closely with Owen Marketing faculty, where the post-doc and faculty member can develop joint research projects.

The 2-year fellowship will begin in August of 2016. The pay is $50,000 a year, and includes benefits as well as an annual $2,500 allowance for research and conference-related travel and expenses. In addition, the school will provide a computer and computer support. During the period of the fellowship, the post doc is expected to be in residence, work with faculty on research projects, participate in research seminars in the school, and, if needed, teach one 7-week MBA course each year (for additional pay).

The Owen Graduate School of Management at Vanderbilt University is dedicated exclusively to graduate management education. It has an enrollment of over 500 full-time students in its full-time MBA, Health Care MBA, Executive MBA, Americas MBA for Executives, Master of Science in Finance, Masters of Accountancy, MAcc Valuation, and Masters of Management in Health Care programs. The school’s 50 full-time faculty members are actively engaged in research, which is supported in part through the school’s four research centers. Owen enrolls students from all parts of the United States and 30 countries.

To apply, send: 1) a cover letter explaining your background and interest in working with specific Owen faculty member(s), 2) your curriculum vita, 3) two letters of recommendation, and 4) a sample research paper to Dawn.Iacobucci@owen.vanderbilt.edu. Include in the subject line “Owen Post Doc.” Please have letters sent directly from the letter-writers. The application deadline is April 15, 2016.

Vanderbilt University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.